Pentateuch was worked out with admirable nicety:

the "population returns" of Genesis and Exodus were alosely analyzed; the emigration returns on the departure from Egypt were compared with them; the commissariat arrangements for the march were carefully calculated; the sanitary laws were examined; it was shown how small proportion of the bost could have come within the Pubernucle; how impossible it was for one priest to eat eighty pigeons a day, as on the hypothesis of the asserted numbers he would have been compelled to do, it was shown how many miles each person in the camp must have marched only to remove what was dangerous to its health suitside it; and by working out the figures lute a host of this sort, the arithmetical errors of the Pentateush were sufficiently displayed. But this was not all; the arithmetical vein o cri iciem once struck, Dr. Onlenso pursued with boyish eagerness to make it yield him, i possible, positive as well as negative results. Everything almost that was countable he counted -he number of passages where the later name for God, "Jehovah," appeared, and the earlier name, " filohim," appeared; the number of times each occurred in each of the Psalms and so forth, using the results as a kind of statistical calculus of antiquity, -the age of each Paulm varying direally with the number of the older terms for "God" employed to it, and inseracly with the number of the newesterms. By this or like means of obtaining dates to eyen wone as far in his outh season for his new mothed as to fix with some confidence on Samuel as the probable author of the later recension of Genesis and Exedus, and on Jeremiah, if we remember right, as the probable author of the book of Dauteronomy. It was all exactly like a clever lad's classic confidence in a new intellectual wespun. Recently it has suddedly struck him almost ! formally thrown out in a postspript written to a! letter to an English friend for which the mail was | ments of applicants. waiting-that the Bible forbids prayer to Christ. Immediately he sets to work as if he had not enough on his hands with his orthodox assailants helore; he sourcely lonks at the theology of the question in its general relation to his faith at all : number of prayers in the English Prayer Brick, shows how small it is, and expurges from his special hymn-back all those hymne which contain any infringement of his new canon-walch cannohe formally announces and defends in a separate sermon. We speak of these things by no means in a spirit of depreciation—rether in one of sincere admiration for the perfect simplicity and candourof the Bishop's procedure, and its singularly impulsive directness. This boyish eagerness and confidence in the prosecution of a new idea has, in a bishop, something singularly fascinating about at least not afraid of its own instruments, or its Jan & Co.

feeling of the episcopecy is in direct opposition to this. Thoy speak as if the Church had no chance without the prudence of its Dishops; as if a very little rashuess, a very slight four pos, on the part of a bishop might prove quite fatal to the interests of its Divine Ruler. The Bishop of Natal has no

SCYDAY CRICKET .- Archdesson Denison's recommendation of Sunday sricket, as practised at Hursley, is still giving rise to controversy. It has been shown already that Knoz did not hold the Sabbatarian views which find favour with the present elders of Segtland, and which are so strongly urged upor us in England. But, if Oalsin himself played howle, why may not even modern Calvinists play play it bimself, because he is more afraid of swift balls than of accountions of hereay. Many unlooked for obstructions, chiefly of a typographical nature, materially retarded the progress of the work in the first instance, and these being overgome, the nuthor discovered that he had underestimated the extent and the importance of the vast that he had undertuken, and that it prefits to be given as a would occupy fully double the time and space englayed by the Ban which he had at the outset computed. The publication of a work of such magnitude, and presenting so many and such varied obstacles so dom falls to the limited resources of one single individual, as occurs in this case. The first part of the work is new issued, partly at the request of the author and partly to afford the Foreign Dominunity of China an opportunity of extending that assistance to the publisher, which under the oiroumstances is usually so freely accorded. The price of the book complete, will be $30 and it will be published in four parts at $7.50 each. But this objection presents itself to the sale of the paris soparately, should the purchaser of one or more parts and take the others, a number of incomplete, and consequently valueless, copies will be left on the publisher's hands. To remody. this objection, in consideration of the circumstances already alluded to, it is hoped that those who see fit to patronise the undertaking by purchasing the first part, will not object to signing an
